  IUBGPSG

Objectives

1. To act as the sole official representative of all members of the Indiana University-Bloomington graduate and professional student population before the administration, faculty and student governance bodies;
2. To appoint graduate and professional student representatives to administrative, faculty, student and community committees, and other such venues in which graduate seats currently, or in the future, will exist; and
3. To address matters pertaining to the general academic, professional and social climate of IUB and the City of Bloomington as they affect the life and well-being of the graduate and professional student population.

About Us

GPSG is the official university-sponsored student government for all graduate and professional students across all Indiana University-Bloomington schools and departments.

GPSG serves over 8000 graduate and professional students at IU-Bloomington by providing advocacy, academic support, community building, and access to resources.

GPSG has been serving graduate students for more than 35 years. In 2015 the current name Graduate and Professional Student Government (GPSG) was adopted.

GPSG is housed within the University Graduate School and funded through student fees. While facilitated and supported by the University Graduate School, GPSG is entirely student-run and student-driven. Therefore, it is perhaps the most valuable avenue for graduate and professional students to make an impact at a campus-wide level.

Mission Statement

“Advocating for an inclusive and empowered graduate and professional student community”

Announcements of vacancy are communicated through the GPSG E-newsletter, the IU Grad Grant Assistantship Vacancies List, and by the University Graduate School.

GPSG Radio

GPSG Radio is the podcast for Indiana University's Graduate and Professional Student Government. From the latest assembly, programming, and funding news, to our interviews with graduate students, administrators, and local businesses, this podcast is a Hoosier's guide for learning how to make a difference in the graduate-student community and navigate life in Bloomington. It's a podcast for graduate students, by graduate students.

You can listen to the podcast on a variety of platforms. Simply click on your preferred application or website icon below and you'll be linked to podcast. GPSG Radio is available on Apple Podcasts, Stitcher Radio, Google Play, TuneIn Radio, Mixcloud, and the Public Radio Exchange. You can also listen here.

GPSG Assembly

About

The GPSG Assembly consists of approximately 120 graduate and professional student departmental representatives who serve as the voting body. These GPSG representatives come from every IU Bloomington school and department. The 10-member GPSG Executive Committee leads the GPSG Assembly but has no voting power.

An audit of graduate student enrollment each spring by the GPSG Parliamentarian determines the number of GPSG representatives allotted to each school and department.

Assembly is always open to the public, and GPSG committees are open to non-representatives.

GPSG Assembly typically meets the second Friday of every month from 3:30-5:30pm. The last thirty minutes of Assembly is set aside for GPSG committee meetings.

GPSG Representative Elections

GPSG facilitates Representative elections are held each fall. Any graduate or professional student may run as Representative for their electorate as defined by the Representative Audit. Once nominations are collected, all graduate and professional students have the right to vote for their representatives.

GPSG Representative Responsibilities

*Attend and participate at monthly Assembly meetings

*Send a proxy from my department if unable to attend an Assembly or Committee meeting

Join one of the four GPSG Advocacy Committees (Benefits, Sustainability, Health & Wellness, or Diversity) and participate in bimonthly committee meetings

Actively solicit the opinions of the graduate and professional students in constituency and accurately represent their views to the GPSG

Forward pertinent e-mail and correspondence to my department

Attend GPSG events as possible

Representatives who fail to attend more than 2 meetings without sending a proxy may be asked to step down to ensure that their constituents are being adequately represented.*

All proxies must be declared through email to iugpsg@indiana.edu 24 hours before Assembly.*

GPSG Resolutions

The GPSG Assembly discusses and votes on resolutions that seek to fairly represent the greater graduate student opinion on the IUB campus.

Resolutions are defined as “an official declaration approved by an Assembly vote, the core of which is a call for action directed toward GPSG, Indiana University, or any subdivision, employee, or director thereof.”

Resolution Process

Dream:

Brainstorm potential policies or initiatives that would benefit or fix current issues within the graduate and professional student community.

Assess:

Determine if GPSG is the correct forum to present desired resolution and if GPSG will have the ability to put proposed resolution into action if passed in General Assembly.

Research:

Collect information on the current issue that best illustrates the need and/or desire for the proposed resolution. This will be used to help support the argument for the proposed resolution.

Strategize:

Devise a step-by-step plan determining who will need to be a part of the resolution’s creation as well as what actions need to be taken in order for the resolution to be put into place.

Draft:

Complete a draft of the proposed resolution using the resolution template incorporating the phrases “Whereas,” which explains the current situation of the matter at hand and why it needs to be fixed, and “Therefore,” which addresses how the resolution will fix the current situation.

NOTE: GPSG’s Executive Committee is available to answer any questions or provide assistance during any and all of the resolution steps.

Submit:

Turn in proposed resolution to the GPSG Executive Committee at least two weeks before the next General Assembly for revisions, which will assure the proposed resolution includes all of the necessary elements to be presented on the General Assembly floor.

Disseminate:

One week before the resolution is scheduled to be presented at General Assembly, the proposed resolution will be sent to all representatives and posted on the GPSG website, newsletter, and social media accounts.

Present:

The people who created the proposed resolution will be given five minutes to present their resolution at General Assembly, followed by questions and discussion amongst representatives.

Vote:

A majority of representatives must vote in favor of the proposed resolution.

Follow up:

Contact the appropriate individuals or groups who should have been determined in the strategy step that will help put the resolution into action.

Take Initiative!

All graduate and professional students are able to present resolutions before the GPSG Assembly for review.

The resolution template as well as a history of past GPSG resolutions can be found on the GPSG website www.indiana.edu/~iugpsg

GPSG Committees

Advocacy Committees

Advocacy is a top priority for GPSG. Much of our work in advocacy originates from our committees. These committees are open to all IU graduate and professional students, and all GPSG Representatives are member of at least one advocacy committee. Subcommittees are formed as necessary. Committees meet on the 2nd and 4th Fridays of the month

Benefits Committee

GPSG Benefits is chaired by the Benefits Officer and addresses the benefit needs of graduate student academic appointees (SAAs) and employees, specifically health insurance, stipends, fee remission structure, and related employment issues. The Benefits Committee creates recommendations to improve the official IU graduate and professional student benefits and compensation policies and services. This committee cultivates a relationship with the Office of University Human Resources and relevant administrative units.

Get Involved!

Committees can be joined by emailing the relevant officer, expressing interest through the online form, or by simply showing up to a committee meeting.

Diversity Committee

GPSG Diversity is chaired by the Diversity Officer and addresses issues related to diversity and underrepresented populations on campus and in Bloomington. The Diversity committee also encompasses the five-member Diversity Council.

Health & Wellness Committee

GPSG Health and Wellness is chaired by Health and Wellness Officer and addresses issues related to students' physical health, mental well-being, and safety on campus and in Bloomington. The committee has standing relationships with IU Health Center, Counseling and Psychological Services, and Culture of Care.

Sustainability Committee

GPSG Sustainability is chaired by the Sustainability Officer and addresses issues related to sustainability within the GPSG and campus communities, such as recycling, carbon emissions, transportation, and sustainable growth. The committee cultivates relationships with Parking Operations and the Office of Sustainability.

Get Involved!

A call for awards committee members will be made electronically before each awards cycle.

Functional Committees

Awards Committee

GPSG Awards is chaired by the Awards Officer and oversees the review of applications and nominations for GPSG awards, including but not limited to Travel Awards, Research Awards, and the Faculty Mentor Award.

The Awards Committee is open to any graduate or professional student who is not applying for an award during the current cycle. This committee is only active during awards application cycles.

Programming Committee

GPSG Programming is chaired by the Community Development Coordinator, and its members are Programs Liaisons from each of the 4 Advocacy committees. This committee seeks to develop relevant programming to bring awareness and support the initiatives of the Benefits, Diversity, Health & Wellness, and Sustainability Committees.

Other GPSG Advocacy

GPSG Ambassador Positions

GPSG Ambassadors serve as liaisons between the GPSG and external IU graduate student support offices. These individuals attend Assembly monthly but are not voting representatives as part of their position. Therefore, any graduate or professional student, Representative or not, may apply. A call for applications is made in September.

Research Student Ambassador

This ambassador represents the interests of graduate students that are focused on research by sitting on the Research Affairs Committee and the Bloomington Faculty Council

Teaching Student Ambassador

This ambassador represents the interests of graduate students that hold teaching positions by sitting on the Bloomington Faculty Council and relevant subcommittee.

International Student Ambassador

This ambassador represents the interests of international graduate students by working with the Office of International Services.

Parent Student Ambassador

This ambassador represents the interests of graduate students with children by working with the Office of Parents and Off Campus Student Affairs.

Diversity Council

Members of the Diversity Council serve as full voting members of the GPSG Assembly and is chosen through a competitive application process at the beginning of the fall semester.

The diversity council seeks to propose legislation and initiatives to improve the inclusivity and multiculturalism of graduate student life by speaking on behalf of traditionally underrepresented students and organizations along with the GPSG Diversity Committee. To aid this process, the Diversity Council will gather data, make recommendations for change, give input for the university's Inclusive Excellence Plan, and serve as a bridge of communication between students and the university.

External Campus Committees

GPSG is responsible to allocate graduate and professional students seats on over 30 IUB campus committees, such as Bloomington Faculty Council Committees. These delegates serve on a volunteer basis and do not need to be Assembly Representatives.

If you are interested in serving on an external campus committee (full list found online), please email the GPSG Communications Coordinator at iugpsg@indiana.edu.

Take Initiative!

With so many opportunities for graduate and professional student voice to be heard on the IUB campus, GPSG needs the help of department representatives to identify graduate and professional students that may be interested in serving as ambassadors and delegates.

Let your departments know about these advocacy positions, and encourage them to participate.

Want to know which positions may still need to be filled? email iugpsg@indiana.edu

Programming

About

Programming is integral for community building and offering resources to graduate and professional students.

GPSG partners with many IU Offices and Departments to support and create graduate student programming. Primary areas of GPSG programming include Graduate Student Orientation, GPSG monthly social events, Graduate Student Appreciation Week, and GPSG Advocacy Programming.

The GPSG Community Development Coordinator is responsible to review, conceive, and lead GPSG programs that address the various aspects of community identity as well as foster an inclusive environment for graduate students of diverse backgrounds.

In order to develop relevant programming, the GPSG Community Development Coordinator collaborates with members of the GPSG Programming Committee and with organizations and offices on and off-campus such as the Cardinal Stage Company, CAPS, the IU Grad Mentoring Center, IU Grad Grant Center, and Union Board

Annual Programming

Each fall, GPSG collaborates with multiple units on campus to schedule, market, and lead events during Graduate Student Orientation Week. Events for this week include orientation workshops, involvement fairs, Q&A's, campus tours, and social gatherings on and off campus.

Every month of the academic year, GPSG hosts several recurring social events. After each Assembly, GPSG hosts its "Social Hours" at a local venue. Additionally, once a month, GPSG hosts "Networking and Dessert" events for graduate and professional students.

Yearly, GPSG collaborates with other graduate student organizations from across IU Schools and Departments to subsidize the costs of professional headshots for graduate students.

Each April, GPSG plans a series of events in coordination with National Graduate Appreciation Week. Events in the past have included GPSG Karaoke, family-friendly Glow Golf, diversity awareness events and a mental health anti-stigma campaign.

Present Your Ideas

Beyond its recurring programs, GPSG likes to program different events each year based on what is relevant for the graduate student population it currently represents.

We appreciate your input about the types of programs you feel would serve your school or department's needs best.

Consider serving as a Program Liaison within your Advocacy Committee.

You can also always email the Community Development Coordinator your programming ideas at gpsgcdc@indiana.edu

Awards

About

GPSG recognizes excellence in graduate and professional student accomplishments.

Each academic year, the GPSG Awards Committee awards over $30,000 in grants to students within a variety of disciplines.

GPSG is unique in the sense that graduate and professional students award their own peers financial awards – graduate students themselves as part of the GPSG Awards Committee are the voice in choosing which research, travel, and faculty mentor will be chosen to be funded by the GPSG each academic year.

For more information on any of the awards listed below, please visit the GPSG Awards webpage.

Travel Awards

The GPSG Travel Award is offered through a competitive process for graduate and professional students at Indiana University Bloomington. A flat award of $500 is given to help support travel expenses to conferences at which the student's work will be presented (i.e. speeches, posters or interactive design), or to help support travel to workshops, special training, competitions and auditions that will benefit the student professionally.

There are two application cycles of GPSG Travel Awards each year: one in the fall and one in the spring.

Research Awards

The GPSG Research Award is offered through a competitive process for graduate and professional students at Indiana University-Bloomington. A flat award of $1,000 is given to help support research expenses incurred in connection with academic research, such as travel costs related to field, archival or laboratories research, payment for research related services, and purchase of research related supplies.

There is a single application cycle for GPSG Research Awards each spring.

Faculty Mentor Award

The GPSG encourages all graduate and professional students to give their support to faculty members that they feel deserve special recognition for exemplary behavior by nominating them for the GPSG Faculty Mentor Award.

Request for nominations for the Faculty Mentor Award open each spring.

Get Involved

Consider joining the GPSG Awards committee to review applications for the GPSG Travel and Research Awards.

The typical time commitment is between 2-6 hours per award cycle, depending on the number of applications received and the number of reviewers available. Committee members receive a set of anonymized applications and a scoring rubric, and are typically given about a week to complete the review process.
